Dear John,

Our programs this past academic year have been outstanding. We have been blessed with extraordinary participants who have graduated with both significant professional training and personal growth experiences, both of which outcomes are equally exciting and fulfilling goals for the Gestalt OSD Center faculty. Thank you all for an amazing adventure!

Please take a moment to explore both our special events and returning training programs listed to the left. You're sure to find something of interest, and we encourage you to register or apply early so that you're ensured a place.

The Gestalt/OSD presence at the upcoming ODN Conference will be especially strong. Check out who's presenting this year below. We hope to see many of you there. By the way, this year, our Payments Officer, Gigi Maganja, will be with us. Most of you may only know her as a welcoming voice and helpful source of information on the phone. Now's your chance to meet her in person!

If you are serious about making a change at any level of system, including at the level of your own "system of self," you'll find your grounding at the Gestalt OSD Center.

Sincerely,

John D. Carter, Center President and

The Gestalt OSD Center Relay Team has entered the 19th annual Danskin Women's Triathlon being held in Seattle on August 17th. The race is an 800 yard open water swim in Lake Washington, a 12-mile bike ride over the I-90 bridge, and a 3.1-mile run to Stewart Park. Let's wish Isabel Wong (swimmer), Marcella Benson-Quaziana (biker), and Brenda Jones (runner) the best of luck! Go team!

OD NETWORK CONFERENCE 2008

The Gestalt Center for Organization & Systems Development, familiarly referred to as the OSD Center, has been a supporter and sponsor of the OD Network Conference for many years. Our BBI workshop, back by popular demand this year, is the longest running ODN pre-conference workshop and has sold out each time it's been offered.

This year, three Gestalt organizations will be at the conference. We are especially excited that a number of current and former faculty, as well as graduates of OSD Center training programs, are presenting, including two of the founders of OSD programs, John D. Carter and Edwin C. Nevis. Faculty member Francis Baldwin will give one of the Keynotes. The presentations are listed below. To see the full scope of conference offerings, download the conference brochure.
